The prepayment fee is calculated as follows:

Extra Payment (over 5%) X Remaining Fixed Period X Interest Differential

The fee is charged to your loan account at the end of the month that the extra payment is made.

Finalising your loan

Break cost fee

A break cost fee may be payable if the loan is repaid before the end of the fixed rate period, or if you switch to another loan type during the fixed rate period e.g. from a fixed rate to a variable rate.

The break cost fee is an estimate of the interest we should have received for the rest of the fixed rate period compared to the interest we would receive if we relend those funds. We compare the interest rate you locked into the equivalent current interest rate based on the time remaining on your fixed rate period.

If fixed interest rates have increased since you locked in your fixed rate, it's quite possible that you won't be charged a break cost fee. We only charge a break cost fee if we will incur a loss as a result of you breaking your fixed rate loan.

A simple version of the break cost formula is:

Break Cost = Loan Balance Owing X Interest Differential X Remaining Fixed Period

For more information on break costs, please ask for a copy of our Fixed Rate Loans FAQ.

WARNING

Break Costs can be quite high. We suggest you ask us for an estimate of the Break Cost and seek independent financial advice before you make any changes or early repayments to your fixed rate loan. A fixed rate option may not be suitable for you if you plan on breaking the fixed rate period.

Discharge administration fee

Payable when you request us to close your loan account $300
